2 Mission

To field a very competitive team to try and win the 2005 Colorado Cricket League regular season and knockout championship

3 Team Composition Guidelines

- Captain and Vice Captain will be elected after the team is formed.
- The Captain and Vice Captain will field a team that gives the team the best opportunity to win
- The team will identify (elect) a coach from the team members who's job will be to instill the competitiveness in the team through coaching, using state-of-the-art techniques and working with the lesser skilled players to improve their skills to better fit in the team. This will also give the players a chance to improve their game and play a major role in making this team achieve its goal

- No guarantees are available for playing time. If you classify yourself as a batsman, you should be willing to bat at any position (1 - 11). The Captain and VC determine the position you will bat at in any particular game. If you classify yourself as a bowler, you should be willing to bowl anywhere from 0 - 8 overs depending on the game situation. Basically as a member of this team, you should be willing to set your ego aside and play your role that gives your team, the best chance to win.
- Any grievance with the selection process should be addressed as a team first. The issue should be taken to the club level only if the team fails to address the issue.
- The team members should be willing to accept and give constructive criticism on and off the field.
- The team members should be willing to acknowledge that during the heat of the moment, things are said on the field. Players should be willing to talk about the issue and address it right after the game over beer/milk/water or the drink of their choice.
- The team will represent CCCC in a very professional manner and any incidence where a player's act defames CCCC will not be tolerated.
- Players should be willing to give and take ribbing from your teammates for their actions on and off the field.
- While the goal of this team is to be competitive on the cricket field, we will not forget the primary purpose we play this great sport i.e for having fun.
